Information reported to the Chicago Field Division on April 1, 1944, resulted in investigation which uncovered an organized attempt on the part of certain hoodlums of Chicago to obtain rejections of themselves and their friends for military service.

The leader of the conspiracy was FRANK JOHN CERONE, a minor hoodlum identified with the gambling rackets in Chicago for a number of years, and connected with the Capone Syndicate. He was born and raised in Chicago and is a product of the Little Italy Section.

Shortly before the middle of March, 1944, FRANK CERONE scrapped acquaintance in a North Clark Street tavern with [redacted]

[redacted] CERONE told [redacted] about the possibilities of making money through obtaining rejections at the Induction Center and persuaded him to assist in the general scheme CERONE had devised.

CERONE left it to [redacted] to work out the mechanics of the rejections. A few days after their initial conversation on this subject CERONE gave [redacted] a chance to act. CHARLES CARL BARTOLI, a friend of CERONE, who had a criminal record, was scheduled to report for induction March, 16. [redacted] however, had not yet perfected any plan of handling a rejection and while he was casting about for an appropriate arrangement BARTOLI was accepted for military service. CERONE found out about this and called it to [redacted] attention and the following day [redacted] procured BARTOLI's rejection as a psychoneurotic by calling the attention of the Induction Station examining officers to BARTOLI's criminal record and hoodlum association. For this CERONE paid [redacted] $1,000.

On April 12, 1944, [redacted] was a hoodlum acquaintance of CERONE, reported for induction. Prior to his reporting CERONE again set in operation his arrangements with [redacted] to procure [redacted] rejection. This time [redacted] had devised a workable plan in which he had obtained the cooperation of [redacted] following a rehearsal. [redacted] was put through the Induction Center, but, following [redacted] instructions, avoided taking the neurophychosis part of the examination. Instead [redacted] and [redacted] collaborated to insert appropriate psychoneurotic findings on the examination sheet and affixed a false rejection stamp so that the Induction Center records indicated a rejection for [redacted] For his services CERONE paid [redacted] were made by CERONE to procure [redacted] rejection, upon examination it was found that he was physically disqualified and he was rejected without the necessity of creating false records. CERONE paid [redacted] $50 for his good intentions.

Another hoodlum friendly with CERONE was "SMOKES" ALOISIO, who is also connected with the gambling racket and is generally known in the Little Italy Section. On April 12, 1944 [redacted] was scheduled for induction. Again CERONE made the appropriate arrangements with [redacted] and with the cooperation of [redacted] false entries were made, resulting in [redacted] being rejected on psychoneurotic grounds. By this time CERONE had reduced the price, however, and [redacted] received only [redacted] for his efforts.

On May 24, 1944, FRANK CERONE's younger brother, JAMES SAMUEL CERONE, was scheduled for induction. Again the plan for rejection was put into advantage successfully and young CERONE was rejected in due course as a result of the false entries and markings placed upon his examination sheet by [redacted] and [redacted] For this CERONE paid [redacted]

Without [redacted] knowledge, [redacted]

Special Agents were observing and following the actions of the various conspirators. On May 29, 1944, the trap was sprung and all of the persons involved were arrested except FRANK CERONE, who surrendered voluntarily two days later.

A Federal Grand Jury sitting at Chicago on June 30, 1944, returned a series of indictments against the various defendants.

FRANK CERONE was indicted as an aider and abettor with his brother, JAMES CERONE, in an indictment charging evasion of the Selective Training and Service Act on the part of JAMES CERONE. Both defendants pleaded not guilty and on March 2, 1945, the trial was commenced culminating in a verdict of guilty by both defendants. Whereupon, on March 7, the United States District Court at Chicago sentenced JAMES CERONE to five years imprisonment and FRANK CERONE was sentenced to five years imprisonment and to pay a $10,000 fine. Both defendants subsequently appealed unsuccessfully, their sentences being affirmed.

In addition to the above prosecution FRANK CERONE was also indicted as an aider and abettor with both WILLIAM and [redacted] in an indictment charging evasion by [redacted]. All defendants entered please of not guilty and on March 8, 1945, at the conclusion of the trial above mentioned, the defendants were placed on trial under this indictment. The trial culminated in a jury verdict of guilty against all defendants and on March 9, 1945, [redacted] [redacted] ALOISIO [redacted] sentenced to prison terms of five years [redacted] and FRANK CERONE received an additional sentence of five years and a $10,000 fine to run consecutively with the sentence above imposed on March 7th.

FRANK CERONE was also indicted as an aider and abettor with [redacted] in a third indictment. Both defendants originally pleaded guilty but on November 5, 1945, FRANK CERONE changed his plea to guilty and [redacted] was placed on trial at that time. The trial culminated in a jury verdict of not guilty for [redacted] which was publicly denounced by the trial judge as a gross miscarriage of justice. Notwithstanding the fact [redacted] was acquitted and FRANK CERONE was charged with aiding and abetting an evasion on the part of [redacted] due to his plea of guilty, FRANK CERONE was sentenced to a term of five years imprisonment to run concurrently with the first five years sentence imposed upon him.

Both FRANK CERONE and [redacted] were indicted in a fourth indictment to which they interposed not guilty pleas and this indictment was nolle prossed on November 5, 1945. The same Grand Jury that voted the above indictments brought in a no bill with reference to [redacted] on June 30, 1944.

With reference to [redacted] the United States Attorney decided that he should be tried by [redacted] [redacted] and he was accordingly released to [redacted] custody.

On October 20, 1944, [redacted] was tried by a [redacted] and was found guilty on three specifications of scandalous conduct tending to destruction of good morals. He was originally sentenced to [redacted] years of hard labor and reduction to the grade of [redacted]. This, however, was subsequently modified by the [redacted] and his final sentence was [redacted] years at hard labor to be followed by [redacted].

advised that [redacted] also known as [redacted] a gunman and gambler who was [redacted] of JULES "POTATOES" KAUFMAN who was killed in gangland style in Chicago, was associated with WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO, JAMES and FRANK CERONE and NICK DE JOHN.

On February 2, 1952, "Chicago Herald-American", 8 Star Final, Page 1, Column 7, had an article entitled "MOB CHIEF ALOISIO FACES GRILLING BY 3 GRAND JURIES."

"WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO, 45, a CAPONE syndicate chieftain, was revealed as one of the key figures in the horsemeat racket."

The article stated that ALOISIO gained notoriety in 1936 when "MACHINE GUN" JACK MC GURN, a CAPONE lieutenant, was slain in ALOISIO's bowling alley at 805 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

"ALOISIO was questioned in the ride-slaying on Christmas day, 1942, of ROBERT E. MC LAUGHLIN, 42, former president of the Checker Cab Company and released."

"He was one of three men seized in connection with the attempted vengeance slaying in [redacted] of [redacted] after [redacted] shot and killed SAM CRISSIONE, a friend of ALOISIO's."

Although arrested numerous times for disorderly conduct, ALOISIO last was in a major jam in March, 1945, when he drew a five year sentence for draft evasion. Meanwhile, it was learned the names of ALOISIO and his fellow hoodlums would be given to Cook, Lake and Federal Grand Juries which would open investigations soon into the horsemeat scandal.

February 6, 1952, "Chicago Herald-American", 3 Star Sports Edition, Page 19, Column 2, had an article entitled "U. S. HITS GANG CHIEFS IN HORSEMEAT PROBE."

The article stated a report showing that GUZIK-CAPONE syndicate bosses and other underworld characters were deeply involved in the multi-million dollar horsemeat racket, was received by the Department of Justice and Office of Price Stabilization heads in Washington, and Federal officials in Chicago.

The report was prepared after intensive investigations by FBI Agents, Office of Price Stabilization, Food and Drug Act Administration and Department of Agriculture Investigators and agents of the Internal Revenue Bureau's Intelligence Unit.

Included in the listing of hoodlums listed in the report as having muscled in on horsemeat slaughterers and dealers through terroristic methods included WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO, 46, GUZIK-CAPONE mob gunman and gambler, who served a prison sentence for a draft law violation during World War II.

"Chicago Daily Tribune", February 16, 1952, 3 Star Sports Final, Page 1, Column 7, had an article entitled "BLOC LEADER DENIES CHECK INDORSEMENTS."

[redacted] interviewed State Representative JAMES J. ADDUCI at his country home near McHenry in McHenry County. ADDUCI had been sought by authorities since disclosure that pay checks to a [redacted], presumably a phantom county employee, had been mailed for 32 months, to [redacted] ADDUCI's residence.

March 15, 1955, "Chicago Tribune", 3 Star Final,
Page 2, Column 4, had an article entitled "PRIO REPUTED TOP SYNDICATE GAMBLING BOSS."

ROSS PRIO, 6116 Forest Glen Avenue, a short stocky man with a retiring manner, who was reported among those mentioned at the City Council Crime Investigation Committee executive session [redacted] is reputed to be general boss of syndicate gambling operations in Chicago, except for the policy racket.

Included in the listing of lieutenants was WILLIE "SMOKES" ALOISIO, who once lived at 1121 Huron Street, Chicago, is gambling boss of the northwest side, with operation entering in the Shakespeare Avenue District. He is tall, slender and a flashy dresser. He was mixed up with other CAPONE hoodlums in the horsemeat scandal.

Back in 1936 "MACHINE GUN" JACK MC GURN, a pre-prohibition hoodlum, was slain in ALOISIO's bowling alley. ALOISIO was indicted in 1944 for bribing a [redacted] [redacted] and he was arrested for questioning in the shotgun slaying of CHARLES GROSS, acting 31st Ward Republican committeeman in 1952.

private life is being violated by this unquaranted following and watching!" "My client's civil liberties are placed in jeopardy!"

Among the mobsters reported distressed by the police attention was WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO, one of the top ten in vice, narcotics and gambling operations.

On September 12, 1960, "Chicago Daily Tribune", 3 Star Sports Final edition, Page 3, Column 1, Part 2, had an article entitled "SIGNS SILENCE LOUD GOLFING GANG LEADERS."

The article stated that golfers at the White Pines Golf Club near Bensenville, Du Page County, did a double take recently when they noticed a small army of men going down the fairway in a horde of battery driven carts.

Every now and then the group came to a halt. The men in the carts went into long discussions. Several of them selected golf clubs and hit the golf balls. The flight of the balls were followed closely the gallery and the results were accompanied by loud comments, some good and some bad.

The golfers, irked because the group had held up their progress, were able to get close enough to get an idea what it was all about.

It developed that JACK CERONE, a crime syndicate hoodlum, and [redacted] a pal of the hoodlums, were on a golf outing. They were accompanied by a large group of unsavory looking men, some who were later identified as MARSHALL CAIFANO, WILLIE "POTATOES" DADDANO, and WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO, all top syndicate chiefs.

On [redacted] CG T-3 advised that "SMOKES" ALOISIO was one of the members of "MILWAUKEE PHIL" ALDERISIO's organization who was meeting at ALDERISIO's home in Riverside, Illinois.

On May 19, 1961, [redacted] Chicago Police Department, advised SA [redacted] that WILLIAM ALOISIO was among the known hoodlums who were in attendance at the JOHN SORTINO wake on May 16, 1961, at the Lucania Funeral Home, 6901 West Belmont, Chicago.

On May 23, 1961, the Chicago Police Department furnished SA JOHN ROBERTS with a list of hoodlums known to have attended the marriage of [redacted] at St. Luke Catholic Church, 528 North Lathrop, River Forest, Illinois. Among those listed was WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO.

On July 10, 1961, the Chicago Police Department furnished SA [redacted] a list of notorious hoodlums who attended the marriage of [redacted] at St. Vincent Ferrer Catholic Church, 1530 West Jackson, River Forest, Illinois. Among those listed was WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO.

On September 3, 1961, [redacted] advised SAs [redacted] and [redacted] that on September 2, 1961, [redacted] attended the wedding reception of [redacted] at Tam O'Shanter Country Club, Niles, Illinois.

[redacted] related that one group of men just inside the entrance of the Tam O' Shanter formed what appeared to be a receiving or welcoming line and this group carefully scrutinized all arriving guests. MURRAY HUMPHREYS and WILLIE ALOISIO were two of the men in this particular line.

On [redacted] CG T-4 advised that [redacted]

CG T-1 advised that on September 7, 1960, ALOISIO was at the Galewood Barber Shop, 6964 West North Avenue, and the Blue Moon Lounge, 2003 West Lake Street, Melrose Park, Illinois.

CG T-1 advised that ALOISIO was also at the Blue Moon Lounge on September 12, 1960, and that he is known to hang out at both the Galewood Barber Shop and the Blue Moon Lounge.

On October 22, 1961, TONY ACCARDO celebrated the opening of a new Chicago gangster business - a travel agency.

Gala opening of the hoodlum vacation bureau, the "Plan It Travel Service", 6931 North Avenue, Oak Park, Illinois, was a big social splash for ACCARDO and his pals in the Chicago crime syndicate. The travel service is operated by [redacted]

Most of the mob turned out. Among the guests were gamblers--FRANK "STRONGY" TERRARA, WILLIE "SMOKES" ALOISIO, ROSS FRIED, ROCCO PRANNO, CHARLEY NICOLETTI, CHUCK ENGLISH, JACK CERONE, ROCCO TOTENZA and others.

CG T-1 advised that subject's father, SALVATORE ALOISIO, died on December 24, 1961, and was waked at the Rago Brothers Funeral Home, 5120 West Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. CG T-1 stated that the wake was attended by all the well known hoodlums in the Chicago area.

On May 13, 1963, CG T-5 advised that WILLIAM "SMOKES" ALOISIO resides at 2434 North Loral Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CG 92-1365

Informant stated that "SMOKES" has been hanging out at the various race tracks and can usually be found in the Chit Chat Club, 4526 North Sheridan Road, which is [redacted]

[redacted] JOHN CERONE is frequently seen talking to "SMOKES" [redacted]
